Two Conferences Favor Unification

(Associated Press)
BROOKLINE, Mass., April 3—By a vote of 123 to two, the New England conference of the Methodist Episcopal church today favored adoption of the general conference for unification of the Methodist Episcopal church, north and south.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 3—With but one vote short of being unanimous the Baltimore conference of the Methodist Episcopal church today endorsed the proposed unification of the northern and southern branches of that denomination. The vote was 180 to one. The layman's association of the conference voted unanimously for unification. The ministerial conference voted 120 to 52 against the admission of laymen to the annual conference.

Thirty-Five Dollar Easter Suits for $35.

We didn't make an error in the heading of this ad. We didn't mean to say forty-five dollar Easter suits for $35. We ask $35 for them and we call them $35 suits even though Bloch tailoring does put them in a higher class.

ALABAMA'S SCHOOL CHILD

The greatest recent advance in educational conditions of Alabama was made possible by the Legislature of 1915, when a constitutional amendment allowing three mills of county and three mills of local district taxation was submitted to the people. This school amendment was adopted by the voters the following year. All the counties have taken full advantage of the county tax law except two, which have levied only two mills of the possible three. A large part of the State is covered also by the local district taxes.

Without this school amendment it is hard to conceive what would have been the fate of the schools during the recent period of tremendous growth and improvement. All taxation allowed by previous laws would hardly have provided a two months term in many agricultural counties.

The Legislature of 1919 made a small increase in the State appropriation and added largely to school revenues by installing a tax system that greatly increased receipts from all revenue acts.

The Legislature of 1923, elected after a campaign featuring retrenchment and during a period of financial depression, passed no measures to meet the demand for school growth; and the general spirit of the year brought reductions of assessments and decreases in school money which wrecked ambitious educational plans in many counties. The gradual rise of property values, in some centers has brought no adequate compensation for the loss, and has utterly failed to keep pace with the growth of public education as expressed in general interest and in school attendance.

Alabama's school child has grown out of his clothes. Only action by wise and interested lawmakers can provide the necessities.

STAGNATION VISITS JARROW AFTER YEARS OF ACTIVITY

JARROW—This once great industrial town on the Tyne where it was scarcely possible to hear anyone speak for the clanging of hammers and pneumatic riveters has fallen on evil days and something like gloom overhangs the place.

Famous years ago for its shipbuilding and steel works, turning out millions of pounds worth of ships and material, today 5,700 workers out of a population of 36,000 are drawing the dole, there is only one ship on the stocks of the great yards and many furnaces have been closed down for three years. Lack of trade, shortage of money and lessened demand for war vessels and armaments are mainly responsible for the present depression.

LONDON—Two and a quarter tons of gold were carried by two airplanes from London to Paris recently. This method of transport was chosen for its speed, and to lessen the risk of pilferage. The bullion was carried in special metal bound cases and was guarded from the time it left the banks here until its arrival in Switzerland, its eventful destination.

BAPTISTS HAVE BIG GAIN OTHER LANDS

FOREIGN MISSIONS SHOW LARGE RESULTS IN PAST TEN YEARS UNDER DR. LOVE.

TAKE OFFERINGS IN APRIL

Every Church and Individual Will Be Asked to Share in Supporting Enlarged Program—All Interests Will Be Pushed.

No department of Southern Baptist work has shown greater progress in recent years than that of foreign missions.

cated at Richmond, Va., is just completing ten years of service in that capacity. And the survey conducted by Dr. Aldredge shows that during that time the receipts of the board have been $16,149,894.64, whereas the receipts for the entire 78 years of the board's history have been $24,915,704.86, showing that two-thirds of the total receipts of the board since its organization in 1845 have come in during Dr. Love's administration.

Results on Foreign Fields Large
Indicating the results which these larger receipts have made possible on the foreign fields, it is pointed out that whereas the Foreign Mission Board was operating in only seven countries ten years ago, it is now at work in seventeen countries, representing Europe, Asia, Africa, North and South America. In that brief period of time the number of foreign churches has grown from 380 to 1905, the number of mission stations other than churches from 42 to 308, number of baptisms per year from 5,252 to 12,856, members of the churches from 29,991 to 111,872, number of houses of worship from 248 to 819, number of Sunday schools from 542 to 1,511, pupils enrolled in the Sunday schools from 22,022 to 76,504, contributions by the foreign churches from $91,159.69 per year to $444,568, number of American missionaries on the field from 278 to 544, number of native Christian workers employed from 634 to 2,494, number of mission residences owned by the board from 66 to 129, number of mission schools from 339 to 860, number of pupils in these schools from 339 to 860, number of pupils in these schools from which 50 per cent of all the converts won by the missionaries come, from 9,376 to 35,106, number of American medical missionaries employed from 12 to 19, and number of medical treatments given per year from 74,829 to 294,422.

So extensive has become the foreign mission work, as well as that of home missions, state missions, Christian education, hospitals, orphanages and the work of ministerial relief fostered by Southern Baptists, that the denomination has grouped all these interests into one general program known as the 1925 Program of Southern Baptists, and all the 28,000 local white Baptist churches of the South are being asked to put on a budget that will adequately provide for all these causes, the budget to be raised through an every-member canvass of the churches every year.

Take Special Offerings in April
Inasmuch as a number of the churches have not yet completed their canvasses and many churches which put it on did not enlist every member, the Headquarters Committee of the 1925 Program, in co-operation with the various state secretaries, is asking that Sunday, April 19, be observed as a day of special offerings in the churches for all the objects embraced in this general Program. Where a church holds its regular services on some other Sunday than April 19, that congregation is asked to observe the day of its regular worship with special offerings for these causes. By reason of the recent rapid expansion of all the general causes of the denomination, and to enable the boards and other agencies to discharge their heavy obligations, an effort is being made to raise a minimum of $4,000,000 in cash during the first four months of 1925. It is with a view to enlisting as nearly as possible every one of the 5,500,000 white Baptists of the South in this undertaking that the special offerings for the month of April were suggested.

SECRETARY WEEKS ILL OF THROMBOSIS

War Chief Confined To Washington Home Several Days

(Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, April 3.—Secretary of War D. H. Hays, who has been confined to his home for several days, but there has been no intimation that he was seriously ill until his physicians today announced the cause.

Dr. B. L. Hays, Mr. Weeks' physician, issued a statement today saying the secretary, on the morning of April 1, had a thrombosis of the small branches of the middle cerebral artery which had produced weakness of muscles of the left arm, but that no other symptoms had resulted. The statement added Mr. Weeks should be out in a short time.

AMUSEMENTS

"Merton of the Movies," the deliciously satirical comedy-drama of Hollywood's movieland is "the picture with the perfect cast."

Jesse L. Lasky, first vice-president of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation in charge of production, made that statement after announcing the complete roster of noted players to appear in the screen version of Harry Leon Wilson's popular novel and play.

James Cruze, the man who made "The Covered Wagon" and other notable recent Paramount successes, directed "Merton." It is a story of a movie-struck country youth who goes penniless to Hollywood, meets adventures and indifferences, but eventually wins stardom through the guidance of a picture-wise girl.

Glenn Hunter, the "Merton" who captivated the New York stage, has the starring role. Viola Dana, petite star, is featured opposite him as Sally "Flips" Montague, the super movie-sophisticated actress who leads his dangling feet to the dizzy heights of success.

Walter Woods wrote the scenario. Others in the cast include DeWitt Jennings, Elliott Roth, Charles Selton, Charles Ogle, Ethel Wales, Luke Cosgrove, Gale Henry, Frank Jonas and Eleanor Lawson.

Advice to Girls

By ANNIE LAURIE

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:
I am a young lady, nineteen years old. I have been going with a man six years my senior for over a year.

Now he is engaged to another girl. But he says he loves me better than any girl he knows and I love him.

I don't want anyone but him. I don't believe his people care for me.

He promised me he was going to think about it and may not marry his fiancée.

My parents do not allow me even to talk to him. I quit school because I loved him so dearly. But I believe he loves the other girl better. BROWN-EYED X.

BROWN-EYED X: There is so much opposition to your continuing this friendship my dear, and so many reasons why you should not do so, that it would be wise to put an end to it.

This man should not see you at all if he is engaged and his conduct toward his fiancée ought to warn you that he would probably act the same way toward you.

Go back to school, study hard, develop your mind and personality and prepare yourself for the friendship of others more worthy than this man.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:
I am a girl in my teens. I have only one man friend. How may I gain more?

In crossing a street or walking in a very crowded place, should a girl take her escort's arm, or wait until he takes hers? IN DOUBT.

IN DOUBT: There is no definite way of making friends, my dear. Just be your own self. Be cheerful and interesting. Kind and thoughtful of others' pleasure, and everyone will like you.

The lady should take the man's arm.

Annie Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. Letters to Miss Laurie should be eyes upon her face at this open allusion. "They loved him and obeyed him because"—her voice faltered—"because he had the personality to command obedience. He inspired them to work for their own good. They learned cleanliness; and we taught them to talk a little English."

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Bennett, of Chattanooga, Tenn., have been convicted there of manslaughter in connection with the murder of Bennett's spinster aunt, Miss Augusta Hoffman, who disappeared in 1916 while visiting the Bennetts. A skeleton, alleged to have been that of the missing woman, was found under the house in which the Bennetts lived until 1917. At the trial, the Bennetts denied any knowledge of the death of Miss Hoffman, and declared they did not even know she was dead. The jury's verdict carried with it a sentence of ten years in state's prison.

"Capital! capital!" The vicar beamed again at her, through his pince-nez. "How did they receive the Word?"

"Wonderfully quickly," she answered, misunderstanding. "Some of them could talk quite fluently in a very short time."

"But the Word? How did they receive the Gospel?"

"Oh! We did not attempt to disturb their own religion."

The vicar gazed at her, aghast, as did most of those present. "You mean—" he began, "you can't mean that you neglected the first opportunity of giving them the Truth?"

"Yes," she said calmly. "If you look upon it in that light. We thought it unwise, for many reasons. For one thing, we had to play upon their superstitions to insure our own safety and obtain any influence at all. It needed great wisdom."

"But surely," he remonstrated pedantically, "at the risk of one's life one should carry on the Gospel? Missionaries have to risk—"

"We were not missionaries!" she reminded him sharply. She looked impatiently at his self-complacent, horrified face and short-sighted eyes. "We tried to encourage them in cleanliness, gentleness, and consideration. Isn't that all part of the Gospel's real meaning? To have stuffed entirely new doctrines down their throats would have been ridiculous!"

Quick startled glances were directed upon her from all directions; the "Negatives" present flushed uncomfortably; Mrs. Stockley tried, ineffectually, to fix her with a stony eye.

"Apparently your success was not very great," she observed tartly.

Old Mr. Rochdale hastily smoothed over possible trouble by inquiring concerning the personal character of the natives.

"They are very simple and real," the girl replied warmly. "You find the same fears and jealousies and faults as everywhere else; but they are not hidden by any thin veneer of civilization. When they love or hate, they do so openly."

"I hope," remarked Miss Davies, not much liking her tone, "you made them wear decent clothing?"

"Most of them were naked," said Barbara; "some wore a little matting."

Everybody rather hurriedly went on eating. Hugh hurried himself into the silence, thinking to change the subject.

"What did you do about clothes, Bab? Did your own last out?"

"Fairly well. I made some breeches, and wore them."

The vicar coughed; Mrs. Stockley refused her favorite game in her embarrassment. Mrs. Rochdale remarked tactfully: "Dear, dear! Isn't it all like a novel? If you had been there, Hugh, it would have been really romantic!"

Hugh laughed. "I shouldn't be much good on a desert island," he observed modestly. "Must have been beastly uncomfortable."

"I bet Bab often wished you were there!" smiled old Mr. Rochdale, in his genial way. "Only she won't own it. Now, Hugh, make her confess!"

But Hugh's glance had fallen upon the girl's left hand, and he did not reply.

Barbara felt like one undergoing slow torture; her nerves seemed lacerated. It was the constant repetition of little drops of water which sent the condemned man mad.

"Bab," asked Hugh, "whatever are you wearing in the shape of a ring? Where is mine?"

Everybody craned forward, and she hastily withdrew her hand. It seemed as if curious hostile eyes were peering at something sacred, the only thing of value to her now in life.

"I have lost your ring, Hugh. It was left on the island with everything else."

"And you are wearing that instead? I must get another at once. What is it? A key ring?"

"Yes."

"Once," remarked the vicar, rising from his oblivion, "I had the case of a wedding party forgetting the ring; and I married them with a key ring!"

"Really!" asked Miss Davies. "I suppose it is quite legal?"

"Quite! Provided, of course, that everything else is in order and a priest performs the ceremony."

To Barbara, that evening seemed never-ending, her false position intolerable. She craved yet dreaded, the morning when she could talk with Hugh.

Once by themselves, the women's tongues flitted over their coffee cups concerning the latest local scandal. Mrs. Rochdale proceeded with a garbulous account of a household treasure, possessing all the virtues, in whose room four empty whisky bottles had been found, during her absence on holiday! As she had been a frequenter of temperance meetings and had taken the pledge, this was in itself a terrible sin, even though she had never been seen drunk. Whether to allow her to return, or to write and denounce her forthwith, exercised her mistress's simple mind to the exclusion of sleep. . . . After much discussion, it was decided to ask the vicar.

The girl shrank into her chair, sick at heart, old talks with Alan in her mind. What key, she wondered, did these people use in substitution for that the campaign for the Bond Issue is nearing a close. I like to briefly emphasize my belief in the value of the column of valuable paper and give a few reasons for so doing.

I believe that the most visionary at this time properly and thoroughly visualize the benefits that will be derived from a bridge across the great Tennessee River at this point, and I favor it because I will give us new life and re-energize and forever establish our city as the gateway to Alabama and South.

It will open up better, cheaper and extended facilities for market for all farm products, and in this way substantially forward the agricultural interests of our section and give the opportunity for business to cities.

It will provide a wonderfully fertile territory for the retail and wholesale trade and will in a very material way fill in that gap between the present days of our present institutions.

It will stand forth as a monument to the spirit of progressiveness and I believe, be a forerunner of the establishment of many badly needed industries in our community. It will mean another link in the chain of the great highway systems of the country and will permanently link us on one of these great ways.

It will take the place in a substantial way, of any number of small industries, because it will be a feeder for me, to all classes of business in the community.

It means the establishment of some definite by the people of these cities, and will convince the outside world of our understanding and predominance as builders, and not dreamers. It means that in the annals of history there will be recorded an achievement not surpassed in these cities in past generations.

The construction of this bridge will be all that is beneficial and every-

— to regain Strength

— brings joy to you and your friends.

EVERY man, woman and child wants to have strength and control weight. It means the joy of living. To be minus strength and underweight often proves low fighting power in the body. It often means you are minus nerve-power, minus health, minus vitality. It is serious to be minus, but the moment you increase the number of your red-blood-cells, you begin to become plus. That's why S.S.S., since 1828, has meant to thousands of underweight men and women a plus in their strength. Your body fills to the point of power, your flesh becomes firmer, the age lines that come from thinness disappear, you look younger, firmer, happier, you feel it, too, all over your that is conducive of growth, development and prosperity.

When it is completed and opened for traffic, it will be free to the great general public and without the many inconveniences incident to a toll bridge.

Its construction will mean the elimination of delays and dangers, incident and peculiar to the antiquated Ferry Systems.

It must be admitted that if this community is to be developed and advanced from its present unfortunate and dependent state, such developments must be considered not from any selfish viewpoint, not in the light of whether the development will benefit any particular business interests or any particular sections of the community, but whether the benefits to be derived are sufficiently great to the whole community as to justify our trying for the working for their accomplishment.

I feel that this bridge will be such a development and my whole heart is now engaged in attempting to bring it to a successful conclusion.

Without a doubt it is a step in the right direction and I feel that there should not be the slightest reason for any opposition to it.

Very sincerely,
John Patterson

RICH FINDS OF GOLD
START MINING BOOM
IN NEVADA DESERT

(Associated Press)

GILBERT, Nev., April 3.—Days of the old Western frontier are recalled vividly by this new mining camp, a gold boom town that has sprung up at a place where only rocks and sand and distant mountains were visible a few weeks ago.

Scenes here are reminiscent to old-timers of such camps as Goldfield, Manhattan and Rawhide 20 odd years ago.

Gilbert now has a Main street, lined with wooden structures of all sizes and sorts. There is even a weekly paper, the Gilbert Record. The hillsides are dotted with 100 or more tents. Almost hourly big trucks arrive from Tonopah and Mina, the nearest railroad points, loaded with lumber, coal, machinery and supplies. New houses are going up, and almost every line of business incident to a mining camp is represented. There are stores, restaurants, an assay office, law offices, a garage and service station, a dance hall.

The real story of Gilbert starts in 1896, when Charles Lampson, a desert prospector, picked up a piece of rich gold quartz near an Indian camp in the Monte Cristo range. Lampson spent many months searching the hills for the outcropping from which the gold had come. Finally he gave up and wandered away to other fields.

J. B. Gilbert took up the search. He met with no more success than Lampson. His sons, however, persisted in the hunt. The older Gilbert died many years ago. Nearly 23 years later his three sons, Fred, Herman and Logan, located the Last Hope. They had called it that because they had planned to make it their last effort to wring gold from those hills.

The Gilbert boys began to get values from the surface. They took out a shipment, and the excitement started. A few days later Dick Raycraft, a veteran prospector, working for the Gilberts, discovered the "jewelry shop" in a badger hole on top of a hill now known as the Black Mammoth. Some of the rock assayed $1 or more a pound. This started a stampede.

The exposed rock on the surface of the Gilbert holdings is so rich that an armed guard patrols the place night and day. Thousands have visited the strike. It is estimated that not less than $5,000 has been given away in specimens.

Hundreds of prospectors are in the surrounding hills. Many new strikes have been reported. Every day the interest grows more intense. Old time gold-seekers are coming back from Mexico, from Canada, and elsewhere.

While the Gilberts' Last Hope first drew attention to the new gold field, it is the Black Mammoth and the Homestake that bid fair to make the camp world famous. The Homestake is beyond Black Mammoth, and

12 Years Ago From The Daily of TODAY April 3, 1913

Officer Thompson was attacked with an ax at noon today when he attempted to arrest a man.

Marbin Miller was hostess to the Married Men's Bridge Club on yesterday afternoon.

PRAYER—We pray Thee as our vision widens, may have no less enthusiasm for the hard tasks before us.

Well, if names are any indication of strength, there is no doubt regarding the passage of the bridge bond.

Port county went over the top on the first day of the Legion Drive. Those folks over there have reversed in the past few years but with a spirit there is no danger of any force stopping them.

Bridge across the Tennessee, a new wing to the North Hospital, two new roads to hook up the North Capital, a gigantic exposition of the products of the live in, what next must we do to move on the progress.

Still some romance and thrills left in the hills of Alabama. If you lead a hum drum existence excitement, try the partially paved roadway between the Danville pike. The portion of this remains unpaved will provide plenty of thrill for the more modern flapper type.

Men Relations and the Inter-Club committees of the Kiwanis club are doing a great work in the gospel of good fellowship and friendly feeling. This sort of community activity is paid back in the coin of the realm, but earns a friendship dividend that can be paid.

DEMOCRAT TAKES A SHOT AT THE MR. WELLS

Curry Democrat, one of the best weeklies published in Tennessee takes a whack at H. G. Wells, for his stand on human beings, human things, ideas. Mr. Wells has recently gone on record against everything in general, including himself. It has the following to say in reference to no have been reading the writings of H. G. Wells. More interest in criticism of the writer is pessimistic as to be almost cosmic in his "A Year of Prophecy." Wells finds all fault with everything in general, one passage against the clothes we wear and the food we eat. We live in, the schools we have, our money, our ways of traveling, our ways of compromises and agreements and laws, political association, the British Empire, constitution."

Some of the important items are justly criticized. Writing seems to be the product of a delusion which even the great can have. It is the holding oneself aloof from humanity; he heads among the stars, in lonesome superlatives. Folk know very well that life, on this planet is a proposition and a reality. It is not a process or less according to our capacity. Early. Our clothes, food, schools, but they serve; we do what we can. The process very well. If we are living and if living, after all, is a fine thing, why should Wells worry. It never needs to be massaged. He is an intellectual, always darting about and skimming the surface of life, but never penetrating into

Some folks who side with Mr. Wells and the whole scheme of things is wrong, that is more of a dirge, and on the other hand, of people who believe as the Democrat is so dissatisfied there is no reason for the splendid individuality and superiority, but of the scheme of things. He could easily and it is doubtful if very many

The Morgan County Health Unit doesn't ask for any praise, in fact the work that is done, is done very quietly, but people that health unit is one of the greatest factors in the communities and the section in which we live. Everyday finds the unit at some sort of service for fellow beings. It has accomplished the greatest result and possibly had less said about it than any organization in the county.

GADSDEN TIMES TAKES A STAND ON CRIME PUBLICATIONS

The Gadsden Times recently published an editorial with reference to the crime wave, it might be termed, in Gadsden and the smaller cities nearby, taking the stand that lawlessness must cease. In the body of the splendid editorial it is noted that the Times justifies the publication in newspapers of stories of crime and lawlessness.

We believe as the Times does when they say "The publication of lawless acts hurts any community, but not near so much if the news was suppressed. The only cure for some of the criminal acts that are now being committed in this district is to put a stop to them, and the courts furnish the only lasting and effective remedy. Such news does hurt a town, but the best way to prevent its publication is to go to work to stamp out the lawlessness of every kind."

There is a whole lot of good hard common sense in what the Times has to say regarding the publication of such news. Of course such news is bad front page material, but it is one of the most effective means of warning others that such crime will not be tolerated no matter what their motive might have been. You have never heard a news story of this nature that you did not find that officers were working on the case, or that officers had landed their quarry. This alone serves as a warning to those who would turn to such methods for their own gain.

When such news items are sent to other newspapers it is usually with the idea that the officials here are doing their duty and that the cities are safe for anyone to live in. This news is not sent out to show what bad cities we live in, but the protective forces we have to act in such cases, anyone who thinks such should purge their minds of the erroneous impression.

FARMING INDUSTRY IS GREATEST IN COUNTRY FROM EVERY ANGLE

There are more people engaged in farming in the United States than in any other single business, and there is more money invested in this business than in any other one line of industry. Also, it is the most necessary business in the life of the nation.

In round numbers, there are seventy-eight billions of dollars invested in farms, farming equipment, improvements and livestock. In all the manufacturing interests in the country there are only approximately forty-six billions invested, and in the combined manufacturing, railroads, and banking businesses there is less money involved than in farming alone.

Agriculture, therefore is the nation's foremost business. There are some men, of course, engaged in farming who are reaping profits which compare favorably with those being earned in the other great lines of activity, but the percentage of those who acquire a competency on the farm is not as high as in other occupations.

The reason for this condition of affairs is apparent, but the remedy cannot be very easily invoked. The remedy includes education, not only in its general meaning, but technical education also, on production and marketing, and these things require time.

The rural communities which produce the farmers have been backward in their educational program, because there has not been enough money to build properly equipped school houses and to pay adequate salaries to school teachers. This condition is being slowly remedied as the farmers themselves are becoming aware of the necessity of educating their children. He is learning that education pays in dollars and cents and he is educating himself and his children.

The next step is technical education. This situation is being met by agricultural and technical schools and colleges where farming may be studied from every angle. Graduates of these schools are better prepared to turn loss into profit, and in such schools they learn something of the marketing problems as well as the producing ones.

One of the big things graduates get from agricultural institutions is a proper appreciation of the importance of his profession and the inspiration and incentive to make the most of it.—Anniston Star.

FINE SERVICE DONE BY CREDIT MEN

The credit men's association of the country, in their launching a movement upon a National basis to stimulate prosecution of those who commit commercial fraud and who beat their creditors, are rendering a service to the public that should be appreciated fully and find co-operation to the utmost. By this time it is pretty generally understood that the bad debtors of a business establishment impose a tax upon those who pay their bills. No business can continue without making some charge to cover its losses. Because of that those who meet their bills have to pay something extra for what they get to make up for the mulcting of the dealers by the dishonest. Of course good management keeps that loss to the minimum, and, thanks to the activities of the credit men's associations, it will be reduced wherever possible throughout the country. Success for the movement will mean a saving to the consumers.

It is time for the people to look upon crime in its various phases, including fraudulent bankruptcies, bad debts, and stock swindles as well as murder, as imposing a colossal tax upon the country. Last year a writer in a business magazine estimated the total annual levy of crime, direct and indirect, upon the country "as probably not less than ten billions of dollars." A high official of the Credit Men refers to statistics showing that commercial fraud places a direct tax of $18 a family upon the residents of the United States. As there are reckoned to be about 22,000,000 families in the United States, the loss referred to, at $18 a family, would be $396,000,000 a year. Other estimates put the total much higher. The loss through fraudulent bankruptcies and all forms of credit trimming schemes are placed at $400,000,000; bad debts to wholesale and retail merchants, $150,000,000; worthless checks cashed by merchants, $100,000,000—grand total, $850,000,000.

It rests largely with the people themselves to put an end to most of that tax levy of crime.

The $1,000,000 fund being raised by the credit men of the country for the prosecution of those who commit commercial fraud should accomplish much good through equipping the organization for more effective co-operation with the authorities of the government. The most important contribution of the credit men, however, is their example in rising in an organized way against

PILGRIMS DRAWN TO ROME BY SOFT ITALIAN SKIES

ROME—The influx into Rome of thousands of Holy Year pilgrims and tourists, drawn here from the usual early spring resorts by reports of the unusually fine weather is rapidly restoring the city its pre-war position as one of the most interesting of European capitals.

Again the Seven Hills look down not only upon the Eternal City, the traditional home of the Papacy and the custodian of the empire's relics but also upon a flourishing modern city which keeps its rank among the first metropolises of the world with a surprising economy of effort.

For example, Rome's best shopping thoroughfare the Via Condotti would be lost in Fifth avenue. In fact it would stretch hardly more than two blocks of that fine avenue. It could be tucked away in Bond Street or in the area between Regent and Oxford Streets of London and it could never be found in the miles of shopping streets of Paris. And yet Roman men and women of the better classes are as modestly and as smartly dressed as any the world over.

Rome's greatest avenue, the Corso Umberto, is never wider than a roomy alley, and scores of the city's streets are heritages of the middle-ages with no sidewalks and hardly room for two carriages to pass each other. And yet Rome has some of the finest and most luxurious motor cars in the world and its wealthier residents are among the best customers of Italy's great motor car factories.

YOUR HEALTH

Heredity Counted as Factor In White-Blood Disease

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

DR. COPELAND.

A LADY in Nebraska wants me to write an article about "acute infectious lymphatic leukemia."

My! that is a terrible name, isn't it? It sounds bad enough to be serious and it really is.

My correspondent recites an interesting and unusual family experience. It seems her son had the disease at the same time, in almost as bad a form as the mother's.

The doctors who read this will be interested, because while the disease is described as appearing to be an infection, the germ has not been discovered. But here is a family where two members had the same disease at the same time. This makes it clear that the cause, whatever it is, may be passed from one person to another.

The doctor gave to the Nebraska lady the name of the disease, appears to be within his scientific rights in calling it "infectious" leukemia. If he should happen to read this article I wish he would send me references to the medical literature where it is classified that way. Likewise, I should like more details of the onset and progress of these two cases in the same household.

Heredity is always counted as a factor. Cases have been recorded of three generations in the one family having leukemia, but here is a family where two generations had it at the same time. It is most interesting.

Years ago, when it was first described, the disease was called "white blood." That name well describes the disease. Normally, the blood, which contains both white and red corpuscles, has an enormous excess of red over white. Indeed, there are about ten times as many red cells as white ones. In leukemia the white cells have increased until they equal and even exceed the number of red corpuscles.

As you would expect, the skin of the patient is perfectly white. In the lymphatic form—the glands, especially the glands of the neck, become greatly swollen.

Terrible pain in the throat is a common experience. There may be bleeding under the skin here and there. Numbness, palpitation of the heart, loss of appetite, dyspepsia and sometimes high fever are other symptoms.

A quiet life, with fresh air and sunlight, nourishing food and mental peace are essential to improvement. The doctor will prescribe the remedies.

My correspondent begs to have others know more about this disease, so they will not

Answers to Health Questions

E. R. Q.—I am troubled with gas in the stomach. What causes this and what can I do to relieve this condition?

A.—You are probably suffering from hyperacidity, an acid condition of the stomach. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for further particulars, restating your question.

H. S. H. Q.—How can I get rid of blackheads and pimples?

A.—You can correct this condition considerably by changing your diet. Eliminate from your diet as far as possible sugars and starches. Eat plenty of fresh fruit and vegetables, exercise daily in the open air.

J. S. H. Q.—My hair is falling out, what can I do to relieve this condition?

A.—Sometimes a good hair tonic is beneficial. Careful attention of the scalp and regular shampooing of the hair is helpful. For further particulars, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope, restating your question.

Dr. Copeland will answer for readers of this paper questions on medical, hygiene and sanitation subjects that are of general interest.

City League Teams Rounding to Form As Opening Date Looms On Calander

The four club loop of the city league circuit is fast rounding to form in the early April days at Malone park. Each afternoon finds some club occupying the park and the other club utilizing all space in the cities in an effort to be ready for the opening going on May 1st.

The Louisville and Nashville team is probably going through the heaviest pace of the four clubs now in spring training. The L. & N. met the Albany high school during this week in a practice affair but was turned back when the high lads proved to have a strong offensive club. Manager McCauley has not yet made any probable lineup known, but many of the faces that appeared in last years Louisville and Nashville uniforms will again be seen in diamond antics.

Manager Watson of the Alabama Power company is putting his men through the paces slowly and expects to have one of the strongest bids in the circuit for the top berth.

The combined Sunday school team is sure to be one of the best in view of the fact that a great many men have reported and from the indications that were shown last year the team is to be made up of some of the best talent in the cities.

The Decatur Independent entrant has a field of players to pick from that will be the best that the city can turn out. These boys are certain to cause no little amount of worry for the other clubs.

The park has not yet been placed in playing condition, but the boys continue to overcome the handicap of loose rock and weeds that hindered play last year to a great extent.

Alabama put the skids under Howard on Thursday by a score of 12-2. The Bulldogs obtained but three hits from the Alabama hurler, Jun Lewis.

Birmingham-Southern defeated Tusculum College 6-2.

The Barons handed the St. Louis Browns a jolt 2-0. St. Louis outthit the Barons 7-5.

Chicago Americans defeated Louisiana State 18-7.

The Cleveland Indians landed on the Atlanta Crackers with a 10-2 count.

The Giants defeated Memphis 14-4.

Boston Americans lost to Mobile of the Southern by a score of 5-4.

Connie Mack's clan handed the Richmond, Virginia league club a 12-1 defeat.

The Washington Senators used Joe Martina to stop the New Orleans Southern league club at New Orleans 4-2.

NORWAY REPORTS NEW DEVICE TO HELP RUM SMUGGLING
OLSO, Norway.—An ingenious procedure whereby smugglers operating off the coasts of Norway have been successful in smuggling large quantities of liquor into the country, has been discovered by the Norwegian customs officers.

The device, known to the trade as the corkscrew, consists of a long topedo-shaped iron cylinder, capable of holding a hundred cans of liquor, which is towed at some distance from the smuggling vessel by a thin cable. The cylinder is so webbed that it remains hidden below surface of the water. A ship entered in rum running can thus be seen and nothing illicit found on board. In an emergency the cylinder can be cast loose.

LIGHT SOUGHT ON BENEFITS OF FOREIGN LANGUAGE STUDY

NEW YORK.—The initial step in a three years' nation-wide study, aiming to make the teaching of foreign languages more effective in the United States has been taken by a special investigating committee of the American Council of Education.

Questionnaires mailed to 20,000 secondary schools asking for statistics on the study of French, German, Italian and Spanish will be followed by an investigation in more than 700 colleges and normal institutions in an effort to learn how far the average American needs foreign languages as a help toward understanding the England language, and whether modern language pupils use English more correctly than others.

An interesting feature of the study will be the use of delicate instruments to measure the "movement of the eyes in reading foreign texts. Mechanical devices also will be tested as aids in the study of French, German and Spanish.

The committee will attempt to find out how many boys and girls use foreign languages after graduation as well as the chief difficulties they encounter in learning these languages. Old and new methods of teaching also will be tried out.

Women Here Are Happy Over Relief They Get From G.F.P.

Interesting Stories Told Every Day How Phenomenal Medicine Stamps Out So-Called "Female Troubles."

Judging from the tremendous amount of talk which the introduction here of the famous St. Joseph's G. F. P. has created among girls and women about the remarkable and quick results they are getting from it, the prediction of the discoverers that G. F. P. would meet with the same success here as it is wherever they have introduced it is being borne out.

"We were urged to give the women here the same benefits from our discovery, as we are giving girls and women in the bigger cities," says the representative of the discoverers. "While we are here, we will prove to every woman how easy it is to guard against and actually overcome the distressing and disastrous effects which catarrh of the generative organs has on the entire system of women."

"This malady—catarrh—says the vitality of women and produces a weakened condition which in nine times out of ten is the cause of painful and irregular functioning of the delicate generative organs, so-called barrenness; swelling of joints and limbs, nausea and extreme discomfort during the change of life; pains in the side and back, headaches, languidness, nervousness, irritable disposition, no appetite, loss of weight and absolutely no energy to do anything which means the slightest exertion.

"St. Joseph's G. F. P. the medicine we are introducing to prove our theories and to correct just such conditions and ailments, we believe to be the first direct specific to be perfected and introduced to the women of this country. The fact that it is quickly overcoming them speaks louder for the correctness of what we have said than anything we could bring out."

DRASTIC STATUTES FRAMED FOR LIQUOR TRAFFIC IN INDIANA

(Associated Press)

INDIANAPOLIS, March 31.—The purchaser of intoxicating liquors is equally as guilty of having violated the prohibition laws in Indiana as the bootlegger, under provisions of the Wright bone dry bill just passed by the state legislature and which becomes effective in June.

Under the new law, considered among the most drastic, possession of liquor also is a crime. A defect in the previous state prohibition act caused several courts to rule that possession, of itself, was not a crime. The definition of "liquor" also has been simplified, and included in the list are Jamaica ginger and lemon extract "reasonably likely or intended to be used as a beverage." Wine, however, is exempted for sacramental purposes.

Provision also was made for more severe penalties for first, second and subsequent violations of the law. It denies the court the power to suspend sentence in third and subsequent convictions under the general prohibition section, and in second and subsequent convictions in the clause prohibiting transportation. Violations of both sections is made a felony, and prison sentence on any conviction is made mandatory.

The penalty for public intoxication has been increased, making it a fine of from $10 to $100, to which may be added six months' imprisonment in jail. Second conviction of driving an automobile while intoxicated is a felony, and the law provides that the court shall prohibit the person from driving the vehicle for not more than a year.

The law also removes all property right in liquor kept contrary to the act, or to any receptacle or vehicle in which liquor is kept, and provides that they are at once forfeit to the state.

Where fluid is poured out, destroyed or carried away by the tenant or other person when premises are being searched, the fluid shall be prima facie intoxicating liquor and intended for unlawful possession and sale. Other outstanding points of the act are:

Provision for impeachment and removal of any state, county, township or municipal officer, or municipal police who refuse, neglect or fail to discharge their duty in enforcing the law, and that trial be without jury.

Where any prosecutor fails to do his duty, the attorney-general may assume charge and employ whatever deputies necessary.

If a witness for the state in a prosecution under the liquor laws testifies in a manner to incriminate himself, he shall be immune from prosecution for violation of the act growing out of or pertaining to the particular transaction concerning which he testifies.

SPONGES ENDORSED AS PETS

SEATTLE, April 1.—Two pet sponges, raised from infancy by Trevor Kincaid, professor of zoology in the University of Washington, have given birth to six young sponges.

The sextet are replicas of the parent sponges, and, although they may never be useful in swabbing mud off the family automobile, they make remarkably docile pets, said Professor Kincaid.

Professor Kincaid's experiment, as far as known here, was the first successful attempt to raise sponges in an indoor aquarium.

BRITONS PREFER BALDNESS TO ABANDONING TOBACCO

LONDON.—Assertion by H. J. Harper-Roberts, a Manchester scientist, that smoking is one of the causes of baldness, which, he said, was greatly on the increase, has caused much comment throughout England. If the spread of baldness was not checked, said Mr. Harper-Roberts before members of the London College of Physiology, the result would be a race of hairless people throughout the civilized world.

Baldness, the speaker averred, was more pronounced in cities than among the peasantry. There were three classes of baldness, namely, congenital, senile and premature. In ten per cent of the premature cases cures could be effected at a definite age by proper treatment. In cases of febrile illness or poisoning of the system, the blood pressure and low condition of the patient brought about baldness. Smoking, said the speaker, which introduced poison into the blood, was also unquestionably a cause of it.

Commenting upon the foregoing, the Telegraph says: "Europe has only known tobacco for some 400 years. There were bald men before that. Cæsar, for instance, and Aeschylus. One heavy smoker, like Tennyson, goes bald; another, like Carlyle, keeps his hair on. But even if it were proven that tobacco causes baldness, we doubt whether 100 smokers in England would give up the weed."
